The Board of Trustees serve as the governing body of the Boise Public Schools. They represent a direct link between the public and the administration, and through their efforts the system seeks to give the best education possible while meeting the needs of the community. The chief administrative officer of the district is the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Stephenson S. Youngerman Jr. Dr. Youngerman has just received his Doctor of Education degree from the University of Michigan and has served previously as superintendent of a district in Vermont.

This year, Boise High again has a new principal and assistant principal. The Principal, Mr. Dumas Freeman, has spent many years in the Boise system, and is well liked by the many students who know him from North. Mr. Robert Curtis, the new Assistant Principal, was a Boys' Counselor at Fairmont last year. Both Mr. Freeman and Mr. Curtis hope to continue Boise's excellence in academic and extra-curricular activities, and to give every assistance to faculty and students in making this the best school possible.

Boys' and Girls'

Counselors

Boise is fortunate to have a fine group of counselors. Their centrally located offices are headquarters for students seeking information about colleges, vocational schools, or jobs. Despite the enormous demands on their time, the counselors remain cheerful and willing to help a student solve a problem.

Home Economic, Librarians, & Nurses

The Home Economics and Nursing departments are engaged in bringing intelligent, scientific principles into the home. Through their balanced curricula they give the girls an opportunity to learn basic domestic arts. Students are shown how to wisely plan home life so to make it as healthy and fruitful as possible.

This year's librarians were delighted to find that they would receive a new library through the passage of the school bond. The new library has provided a larger area for study, books, and reference material.

Art, Music and Humanities

Boise High is fortunate to have a number of departments which give some feeling of the cultural quality of our world. The Art and Music departments help students acquire a deeper appreciation for artistic works. By facing the problems of the artist, students receive a fuller insight into the merit and feeling of a work. The Humanities department presents the concepts of Western civilization by examining its great cultural eras. Humanities brings all periods into focus, allowing students to see their lives in the light of universal themes of art, music, and literature.

Boise High's Social Studies department is dedicated to instilling a sense of man's accomplishments and behavior in its students. Through courses in world and U.S. history, students learn of the problems and solutions of man's past. On the other hand, courses such as world politics and sociology give students a view of modern life. The Social Sciences department, then presents students with an excellent opportunity to prepare for life in society.

It has been beautiful knowing you. All the best for college. See you Down Under sometimes,

A student from Melbourne, Australia, Chris Chipperfield was guest of the Cy. W. Radcliffes. Jennifer Radcliffe was Chris' "sister" for the A.F.S. program. (missing John, Bill Alice & Sasha)

"One of the marvelous parts of the A.F.S. experience is the people you meet. The highlight of my stay is having the privilege and honour of being a Boise Brave. In sharing your friendship I have learned to take victory and defeat on the tennis court; to endure fatigue on Friday morning after spending Thursday night decorating football players' houses; to laugh at bruises received from "Powder Puff Football"; and in true Senior Pepster tradition, to cry whether the Braves win or lose. I shall always be indebted for the wonderful year spent with you. Wherever I am, wherever I go, wherever I can tell people about Boise High, it will always be with the feeling "I couldn't be prouder"

Homecoming Events

On Tuesday noon, Homecoming week activities, sponsored by the Key Club, got off to a rollicking start with the tricycle race, followed Wednesday and Thursday by the equally hilarious pie-eating contest and powder-puff football game. Friday, all of downtown Boise witnessed one of the school's best homecoming parades. That night came the crowning of the homecoming court and the resounding victory over the Nampa bulldogs. The week was climaxed by a dance in the school's cafeteria.

"Yes, we got caught fraternizing with the enemy!" Todd Burt and John Gregory are caged with an awfully cute Nampa bulldog.

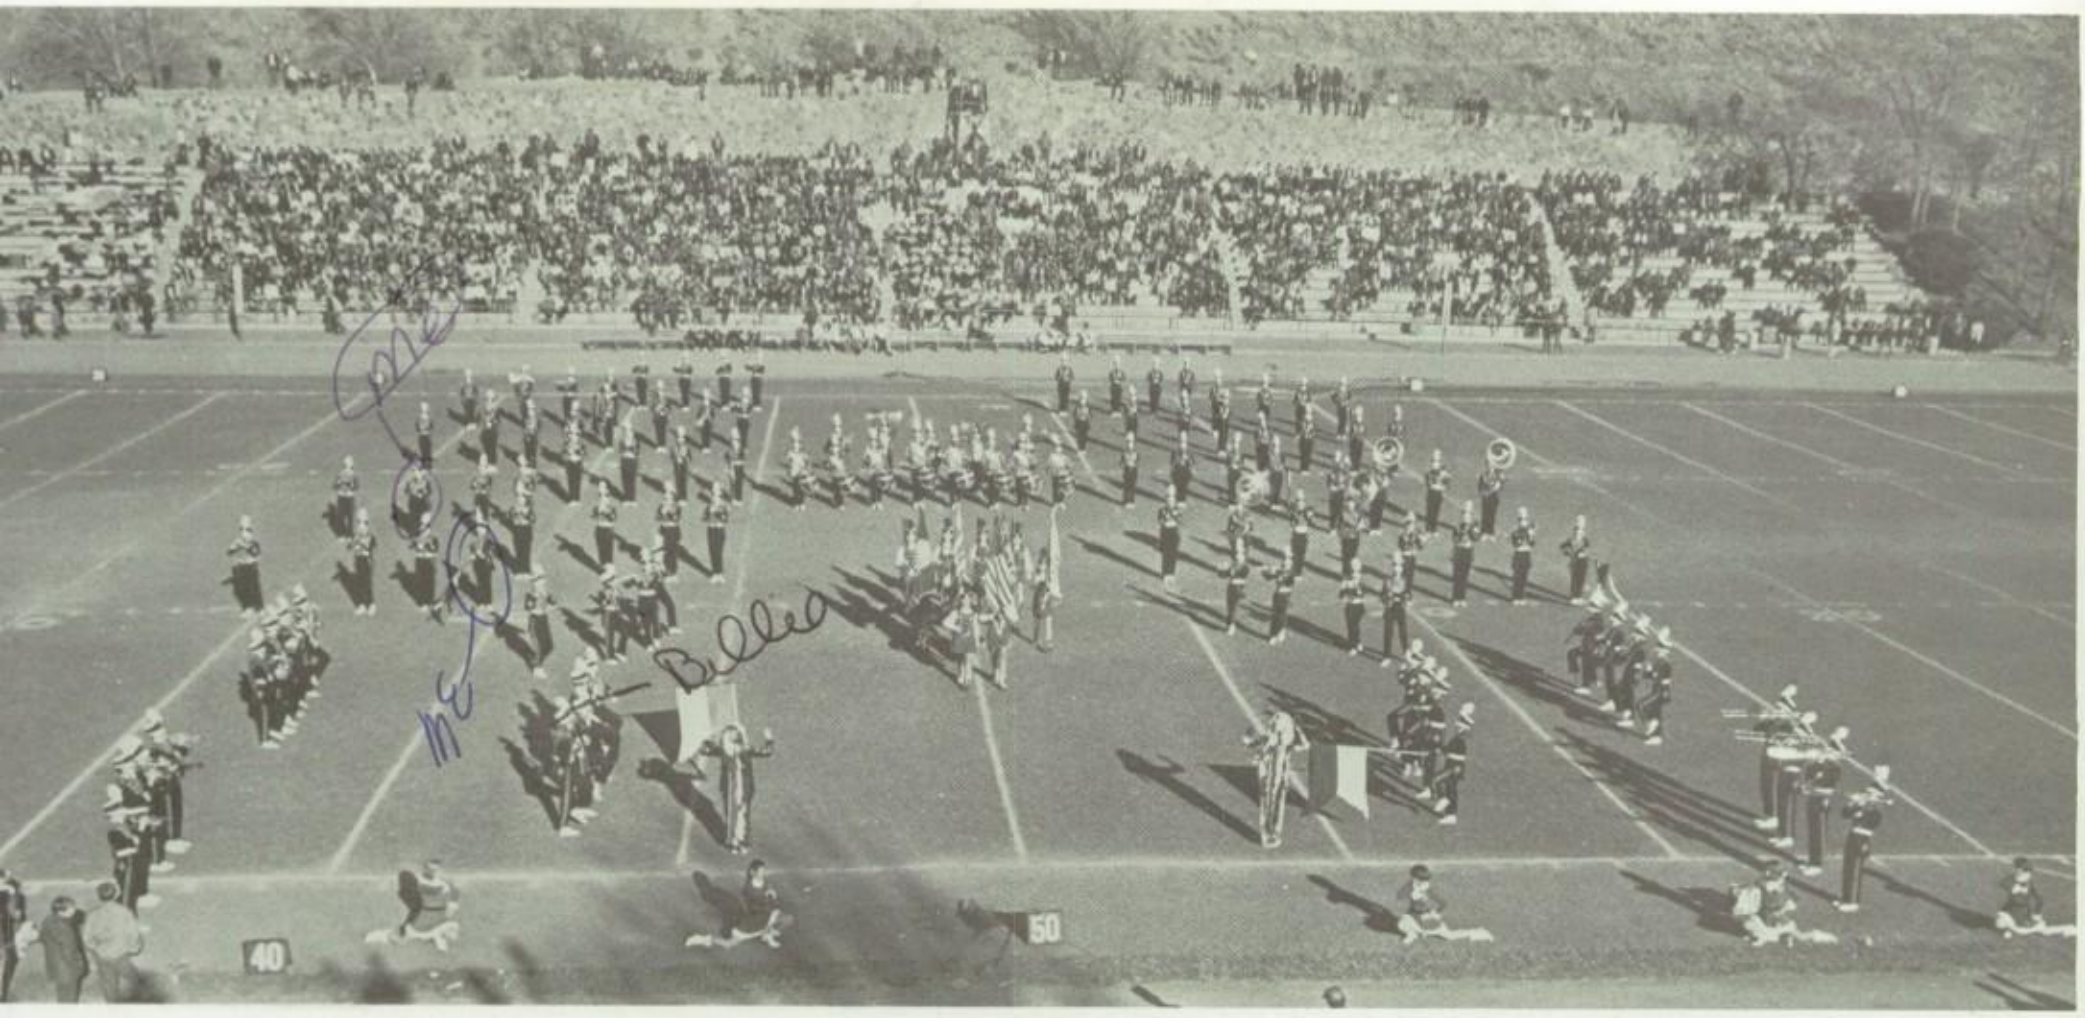
Boise High's Key Club is a service organization established to aid the school and community in worthwhile projects. This year the Key Club's chief project was the establishment of a plan to landscape the school grounds. Through their efforts, the grounds around Boise High will soon have a leafy green look again.

'B'' Club

Under outstanding leadership, "B" Club went all out this year in their enthusiasm and support for school activities. The Christmas dance, entitled "A White Christmas", was one of their main activities during the year and was a great success.

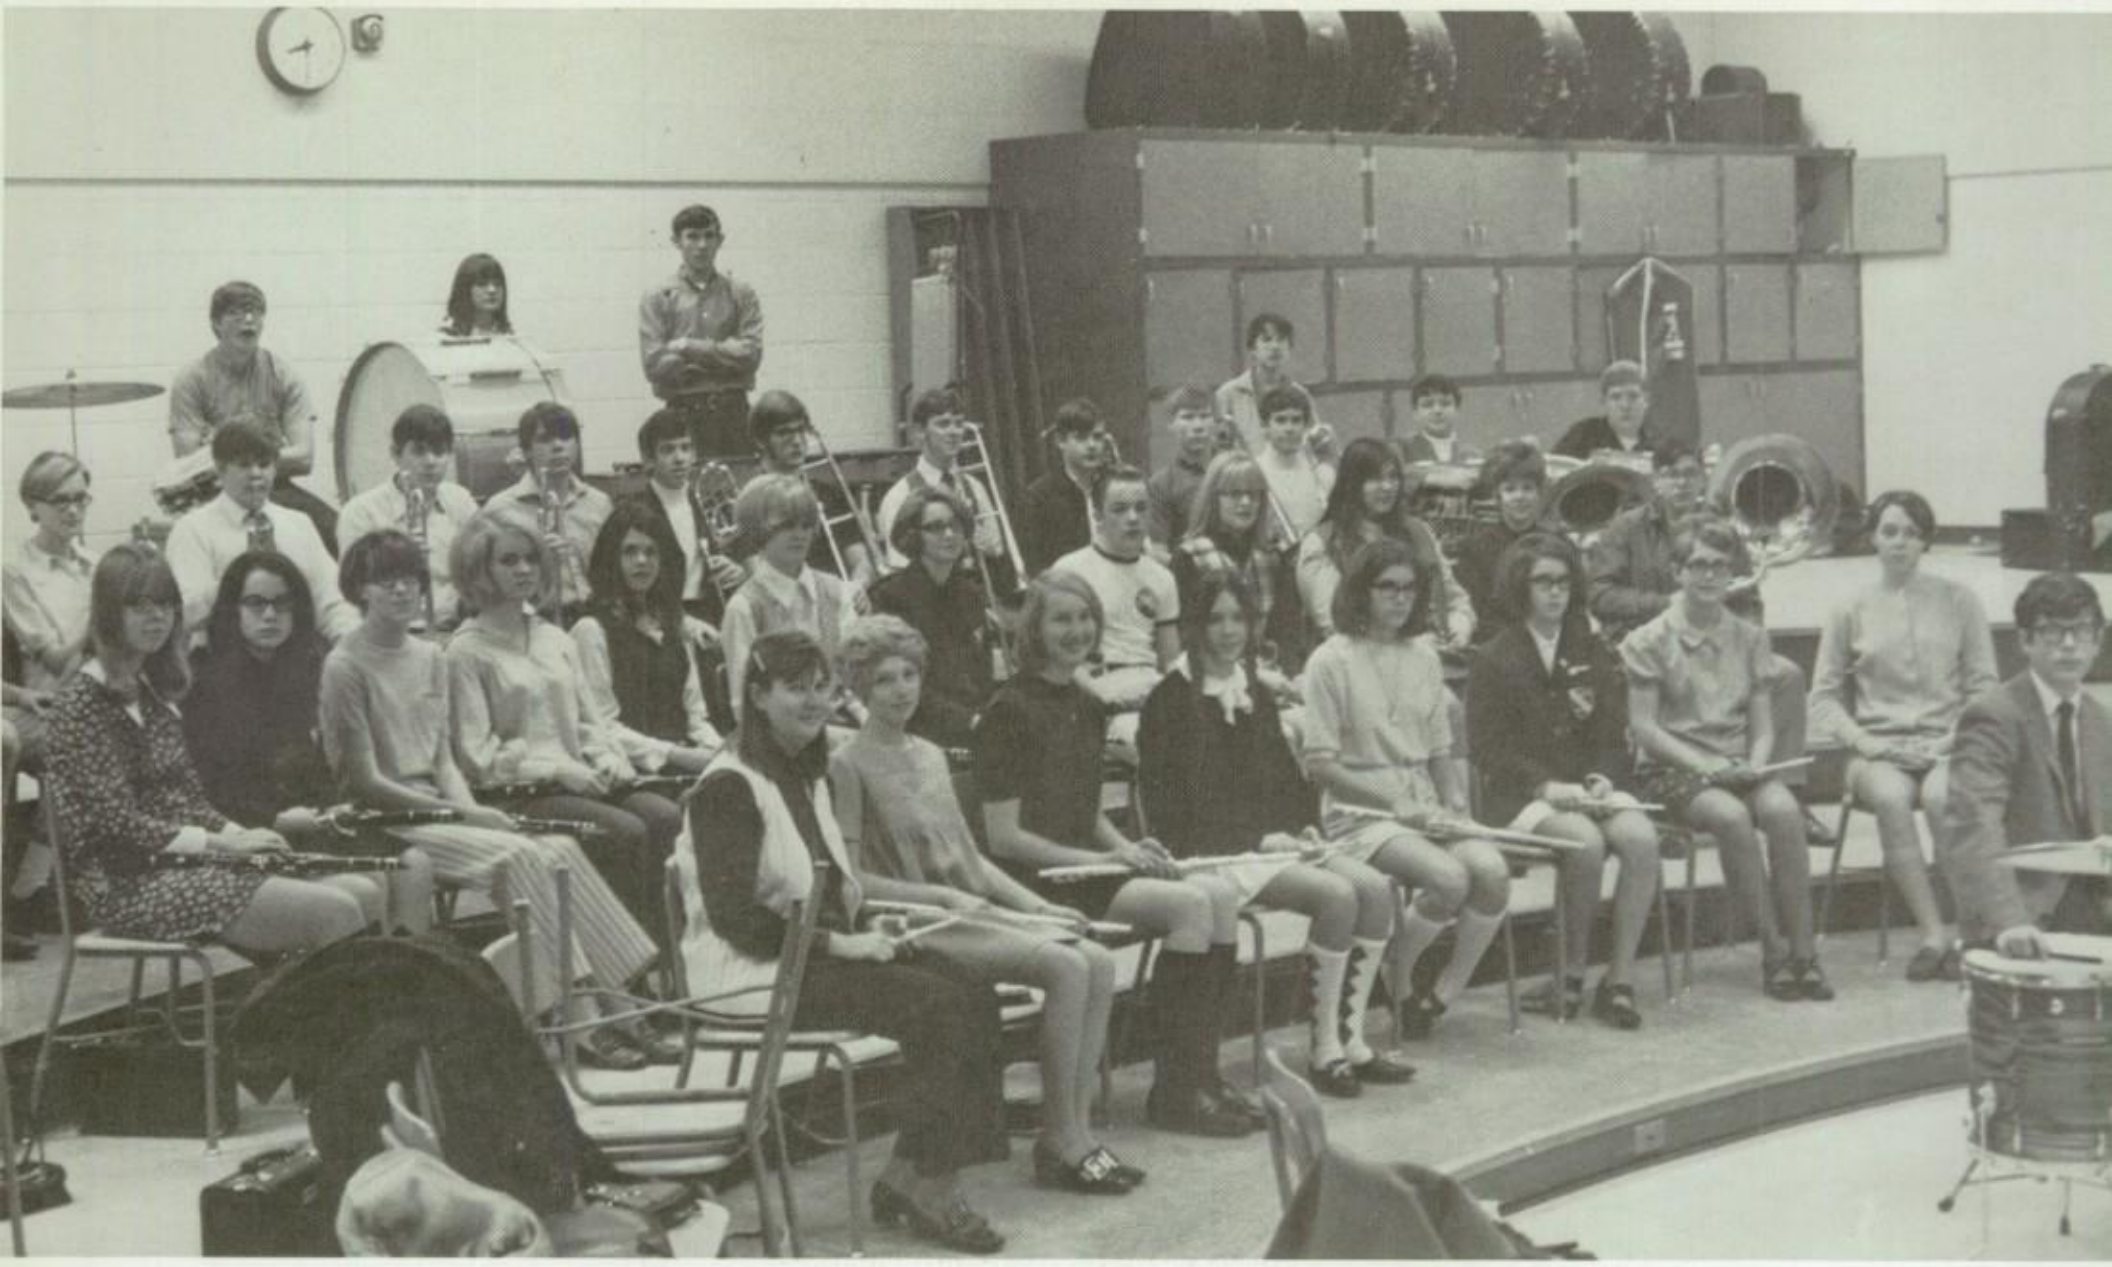
"B" Club, headed by officers Jack Wilfong, sec.; Charlie Le Duc, pres.; Mike Hummel, treas.; Coach Stickle, advisor; Todd Burt, sgt. at arms; Mike Mohrman, vice-pres.; and Phil Stanley, historian; was bigger and better than ever before.



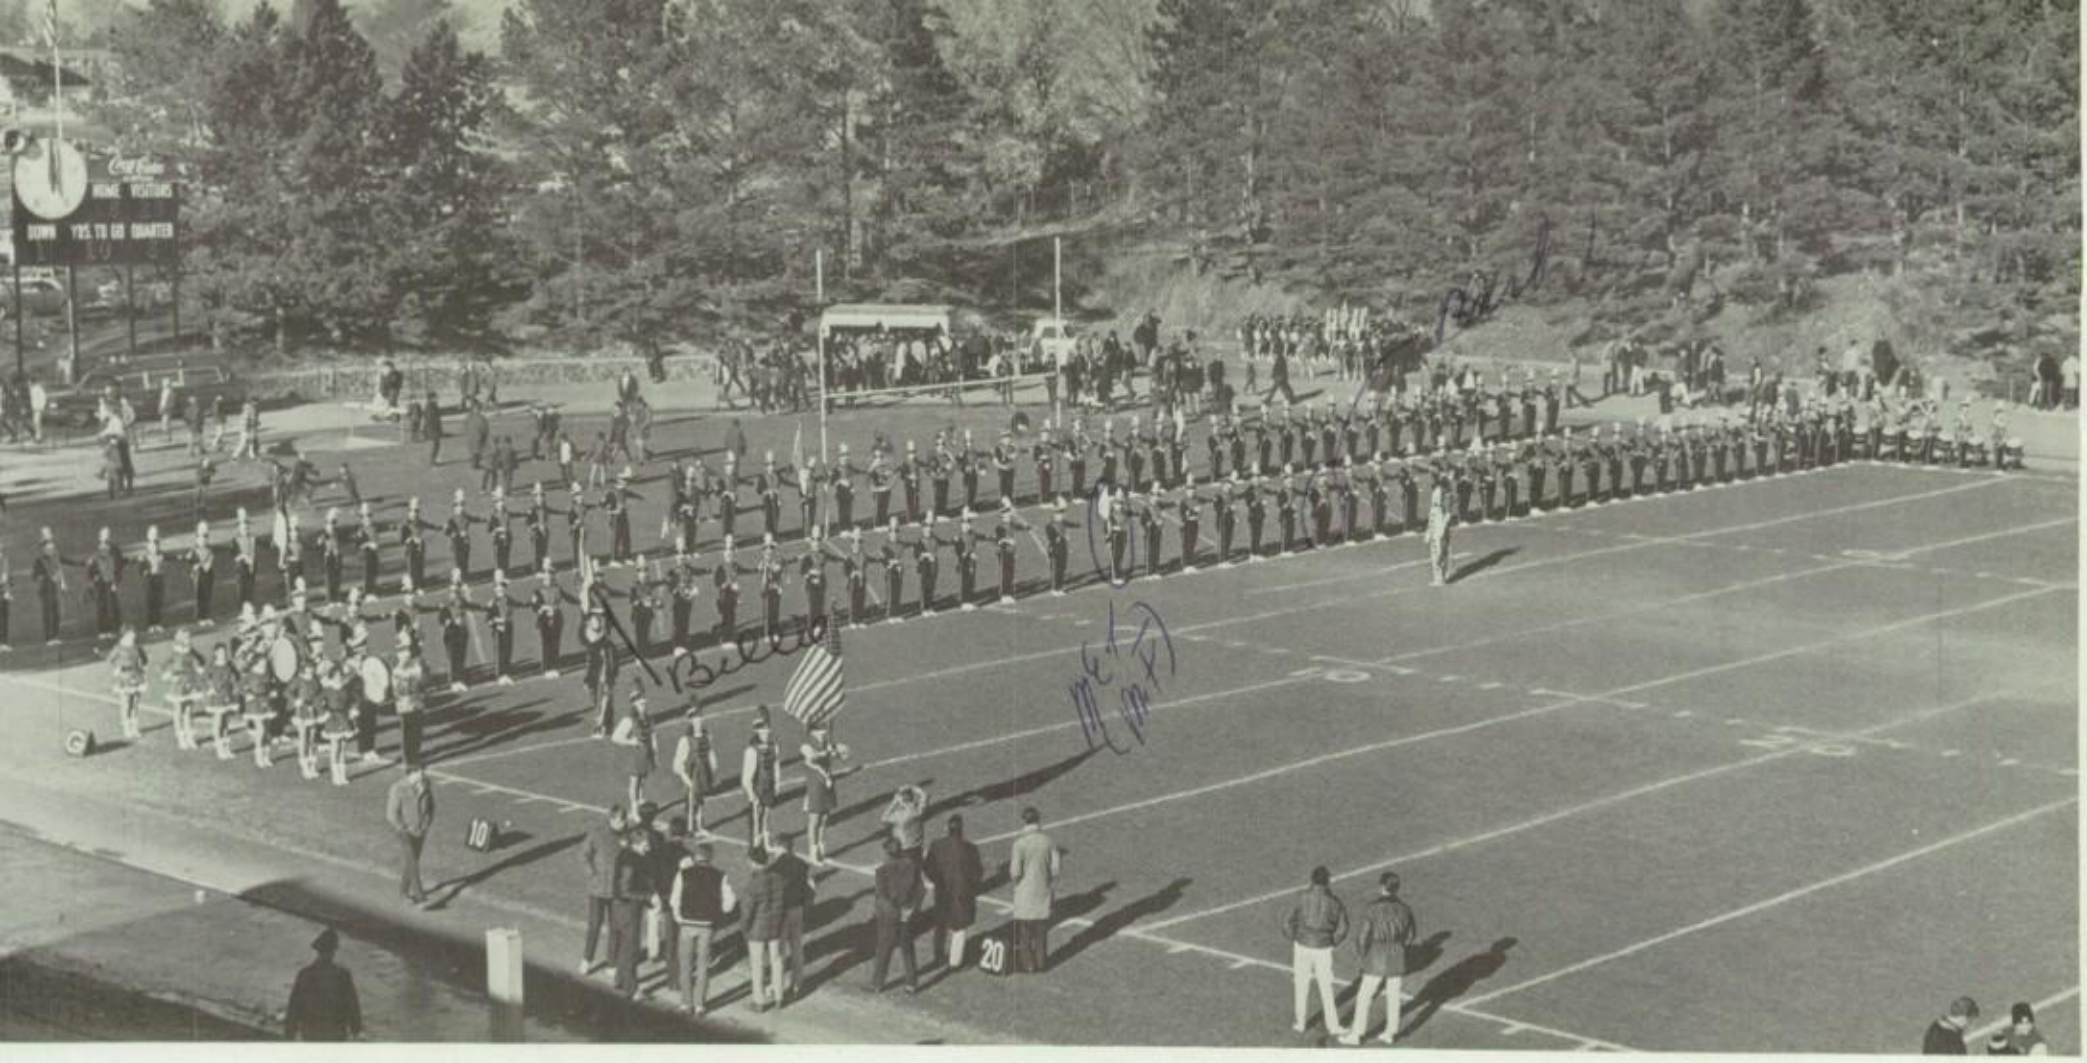
Band

rive typified the Boise High Marching Band of 969. Starting practice early in August and rehearsg for hundreds of hours before, during, and after hool paid off as the Band marched off with the Fevered" hearts of Boise audiences and an invitaon to perform at the ISU-Drake University game n November 22. The Mighty 124 so impressed the ectators there that a major Pocatello newspaper iled "Jazz Americana" as a model for all Eastern aho show bands.

The proud and dignified leaders of the Boise band are Lela Daniel, librarian; Bill Heady and Jerry Durbin, property managers; Tom Fuhriman, president; and Barb Sterling, treasurer. Absent is the spirited vice-president, Alvon Griffin.



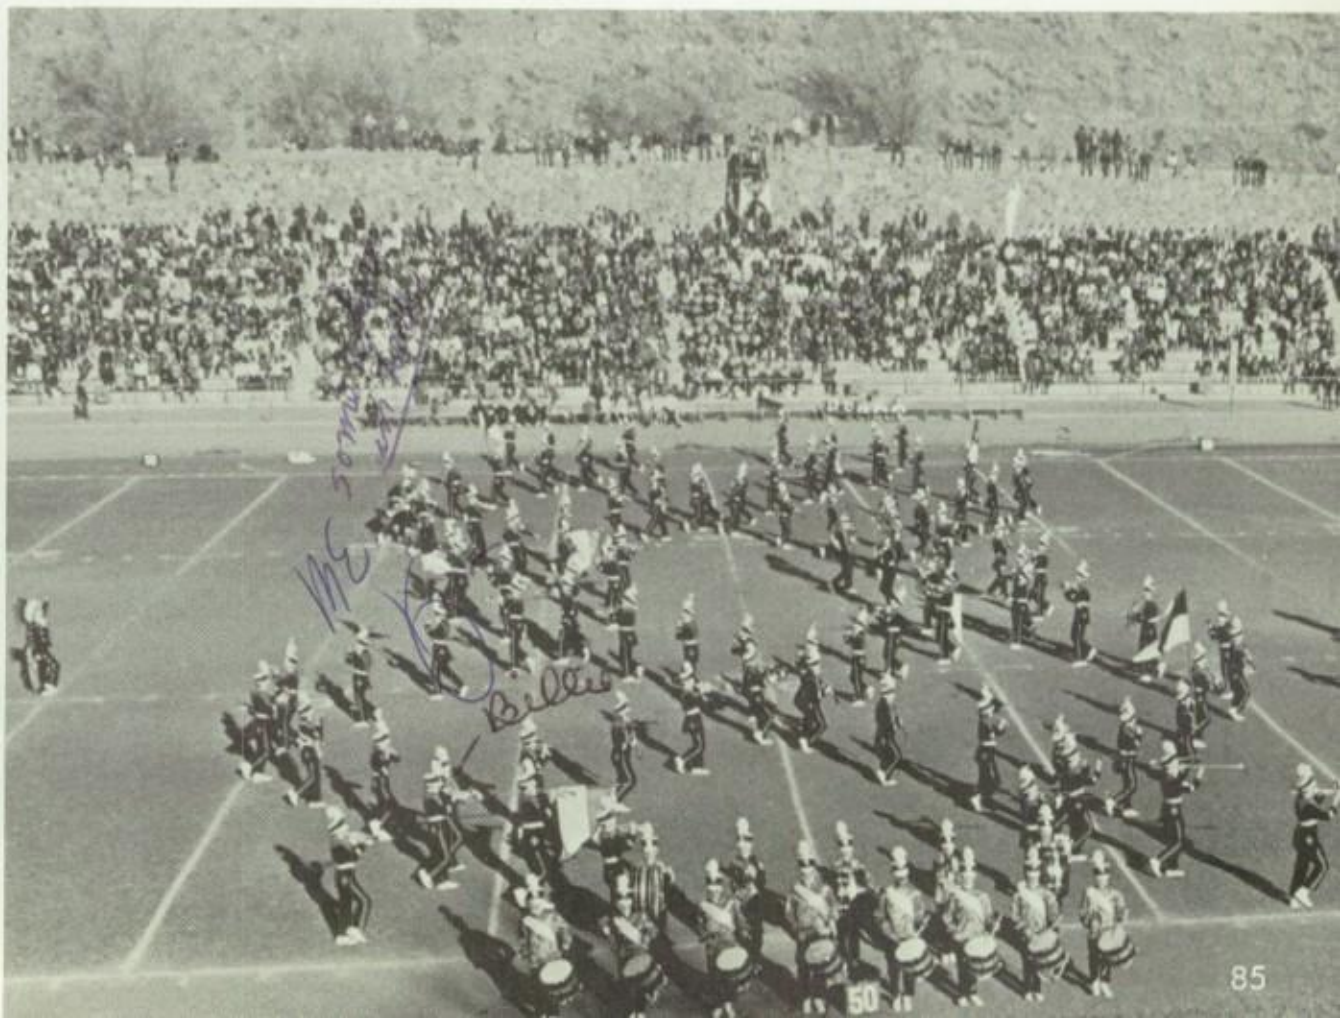
Two of the more flamboyant spirit groups are the Pep Band and twirlers. The Pep Band provides the pop sound for assemblies and games. Twirlers, Pat O'Neil, Loretta Wesely, and Teri Norell (back l to r), and Margaret Hall, Debbie Mousetis (head twirler) and Martha Hall, also spark entertainment at games along with heap big chiefs Vicki Hawkins and Kent Beckman seen rehearsing at the left.



Band . . . Memories Of Pocatello

The Pocatello trip holds many memories for the BHS Band: the full moon above Boise, the spectacular sunrise over the desert, the tour of ISU, and the game itself. The most memorable moment of all was after the show when the program announcer presented the band as "the Boise State College Band."

lie Mismen and Billie Cutshaw hurry across e field at Pocatello.



Orchestra

The Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Howard Freeman, continued to give Boise High an excellent taste of symphonic music. The Orchestra also works in a number of other areas however. Its members assist the band in many concerts and perform in smaller groups. Their talent provides a refreshingly varied program of music for the students of BHS and the community.

HOW!

A Cappella Choir

Under the baton of director James Anderson choir members have candled, warbled, and intoned their way into the hearts of many audiences. The A Cappella choir was led to another fine season by officers: Mike Dunn, president; Debbie Barnes, vice president; Mary Sue Hine, secretary; Teri Robinson, treasurer; Carl Lindbloom and Brent Hessing, librarians; Dave Forrey and Debbie Osborn, robe attendants; and section leaders Annette Moffett (soprano), Cathy Braden (alto), Steve Hatch (tenor), and Brian Harris (bass).

Sophomore Choir

Mixed Ensemble

The Sophomore Choir and Mixed Ensemble had a successful year, giving a number of performances for various groups. These choirs serve an important function in increasing the spread of music through the community and providing a training ground for the A Cappella choir.

Cheerleaders

Boise High's fine Cheerleaders have contributed greatly to the spirit of the year. Juniors Nancy Pray and Karen Lamont and seniors Liz Lattin and Marcia Brown have worked extremely hard, starting during the summer when they won an award at the Northwest cheerleading conference at Eugene. They have strived ceaselessly in bringing out the spirit of Boise High.

Cheering the Baby Braves to great victories were Soph cheerleaders Kim Leatham, Judy Cantrell, Terrie Barker, and Jane Gibson.

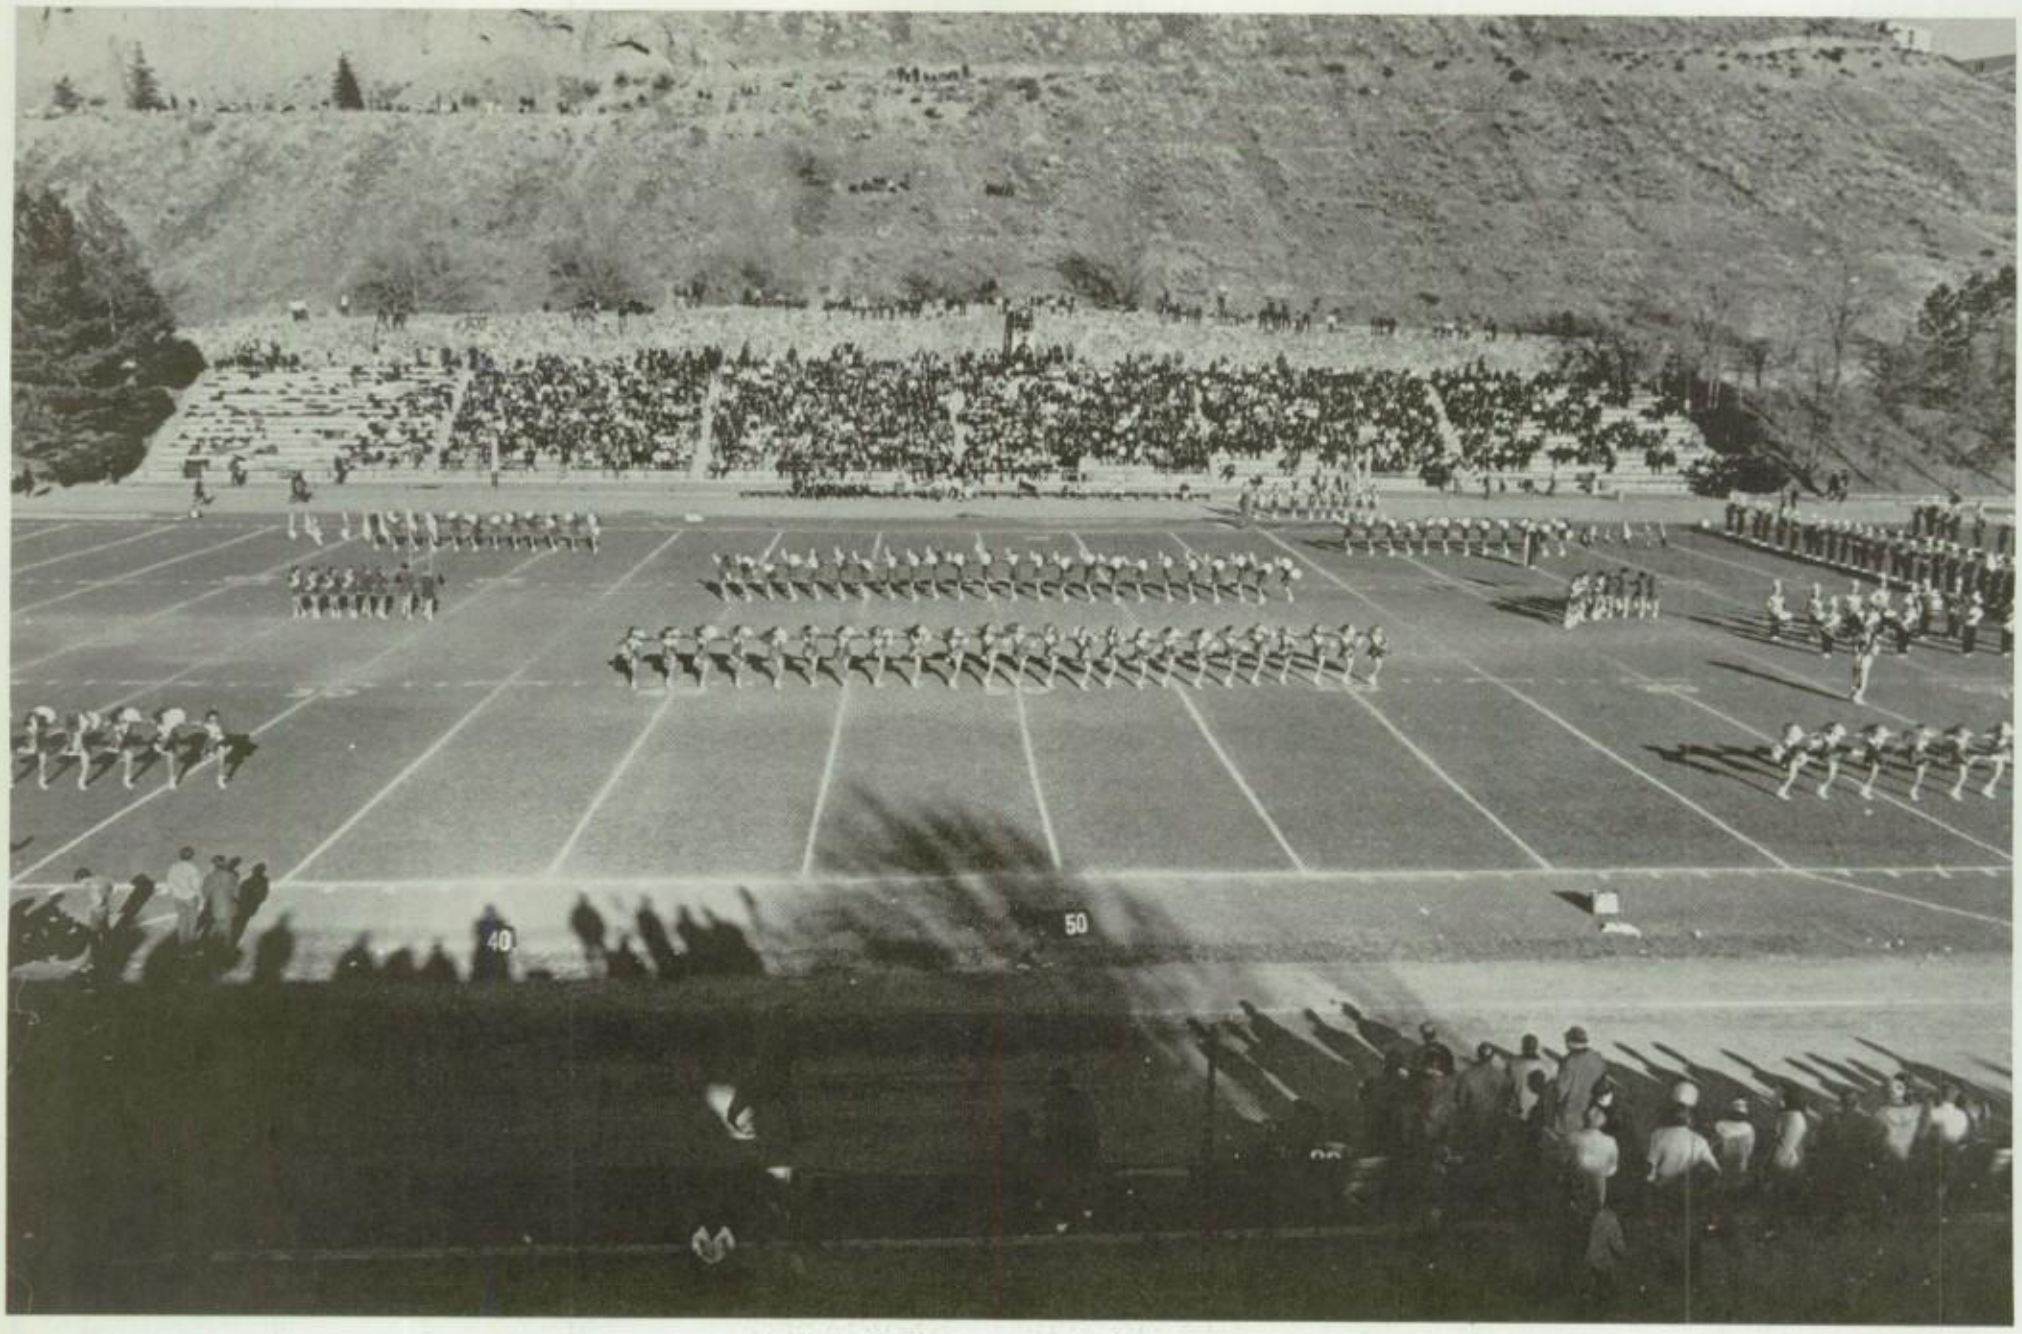
Thunderbird Leaders Take Team to Poky'



During the 1969-70 football season the Boise High Thunderbirds and Marching Band were invited to march at the half-time of the Idaho State-Drake football game in Pocatello. By selling candy the team earned enough to attend the game where they put on a thrilling performance. The Thunderbirds entertained many spectators with their excellent drills during the season.

"Ruff." says Thunder, the team mascot, when asked what kind of competition the Thunderbirds would provide for the 1970 season.

Girls' League

Girls' League, the largest club at Boise High, organized the girls' cheering section at games, collected food at Thanksgiving and toys at Christmas for the Idaho State School in Nampa, and sold concessions at games. Girls' League also sponsored the Big Sister Tea, the Exchange Tea, the Father-Daughter Banquet, and the May Queen Formal.

his year's Girls' League officers were: Wanda Eichel-erger, Secretary; Jane Chalfant, Vice President; Reme endiola, Treasurer; Janet Ness, President; and Barb erling, Historian.

Advisor Miss Druash directed all Girls' League activities this year.

Selected on the basis of Girls' League points were Big Sisters Margaret Knowles, Carol Williamson, Teri Robinson, Kathy Loughery, Kris Gurnsey, Jill Shaw, Karen Forrey, Becky Poulson, Pat Larsen, "Hey, I'm not ready for this picture" Sara Patterson, and Jennie Brennan. Missing are Sande Allen, Billie Cutshaw, and Kathy Angelos.

Manning the guns for the Senior Women were Senior Representatives Woodina Livingston, Caren Burke, Claudia Riche, and Laura Sanburn.

Elected to represent the junior girls were Jan Johnson, Doris Mortimer, Barb Lynard, and Janet Robinson.

Sophomore Representatives were Mimzel Priest, Ann Wennstrom, Teresa Messmer, and Marilyn Burns.

Senior Pepsters are poster makers, house decorators, spirit boosters, and all-round great Senior girls.

Decorating the halls is sometimes a major project. Senior Pepsters Sara Patterson, Sue Rose, Becky Poulson, Karen Forrey, and Toni Siebert illustrate that point.

Striking a military pose, Boise High ROTC comes to attention on the front steps

ROTC

The Boise High unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps seeks to give students training in military operations and prepare them for service in the armed forces. Through its scholarship program, the ROTC helps many students through college and guarantees them commissions as officers.

The ROTC sponsors play an important part in the activities of the unit. They handle much of the paperwork and administrative detail. This years sponsors are (l to r) Christi Smith, Carol Hansberger, Cheryl Smith, Stephanie Tovey, Nancy Oliver, Nancy Anderson, Debbie Liles, Vicki Hawkins, Liz Jones, Chris Auth, and Suzanne Shelton.

The Battalion Staff of the BHS ROTC is led by Battalion Commander Doug Guffey.

Marksmen get a bang out of their work on the new ROTC rifle range.

Included in the operation were: Eva Anderson, Todd Burt, Emily Hansen, Jack Morgan, Sara Patterson, Kayce Mabbott, Steve Yates, Lisa Hochstrasser, Robert Toothman, Nancy Tipton, Diane Dubois, Chris Hampton, Beckey Poulson, Lousia Binning, Barb Beatty, Mary Aldape, Sue Rose, Marge Harmon, Toni Siebert, and Jane Hamersley.

Courier

This year the Courier Editors and staff have taken pride in their work and have given their finest effort. First, careful thought was given to the selection of a theme and an effort made to continue it through the book. The Editors also tried to make the opening section more coherent, with one style of layout. The Academics section was redesigned in order to emphasize the importance of the class and students. We would like to thank the faculty editors, especially Lisa Hockstrasser for carrying out this idea tastefully. In order to improve the organization of the book, a new section, The Year, was created to present a view of activities at Boise High. Credit should go to Marge Harmon and Nancy Tipton for their work on this section. The Athletics section, under the fine leadership of Robert Toothman and Kaycee Mabbot, was retained in much the same form as last years excellent section. Organizations section presented many special problems, but these were solved, thanks to the hard work of people such as Becky Poulson, Mary Aldape, Sara Paterson, and Steve Yates. The Classes section was changed considerably with the attempt to bring the thoughts of students into the book. Special thanks goes to Sara Paterson, Dianne Dubois, and Barb Beatty for their task in preparing the underclass section in a minimum of time. Thanks is also due to Margaret Paxton, for her work at typing and developing, Marion Porter, who gave valuable time to take needed pictures, and Louisa Binning for her great help in sorting pictures and pitching in on deadlines.

Highlights

ne Highlights, Boise High's fine student newspaper had an entful year. With the arrival of a new printing press, a ange was made to offset printing. This involves quite differ-t procedures from those practiced before, but the staff adapted ickly, and was soon turning out excellent issues with the new ocess.

Quill and Scroll

Club and Staff

During the year Quill and Scroll collected and critiqued many student's literary works and also sponsored outside activities, including dances, pop bottle drives, workshops, and banquets. The club's homecoming float, a Volkswagen decorated as a shark, brought 3rd place during the week's activities. As many of the clubs do, Quill and Scroll helped promote spirit for football and basketball games. At the end of the year they published the Signal, a collection of the best student works.

Boise's Art Club, Mother Jello, was in operation for their second big year. They began the season with a rousing car wash. Unfortunately the profits were small. Their second mammoth project was a pop bottle drive which was more profitable. Another money making venture, a bawed food sale, was something less than spectacular. They planned a trop to Seattle but again it was no go. Their second annual spring art fiesta was a fiasco. Noon hour silk screening poster sales netted seventy nine cents.

Senior Class 1970

The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story, and writes another; his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it.

Senior class officers pause at noon for a picture. Driver is Doug Oppenheimer, representative, also in the front seat is Todd Burt, secretary. In the back seat, left to right, is Teri Robinson, president, and Chris Auth, treasurer.

One last look before the senior class officers take off for downtown Boise.

Gail Young found the dunk-a-punk a bit wet with a sweat shirt on.

Mike Van Liew gets plenty of help (?) from his friends in climbing the flag pole.

The sophomore cheerleaders are ready to make a fast get away.

This book is a dedication of ourselves to capture the heart and spirit of what it is to be young. The luster of youth is transient but the permanence of youth is dignity, insight, and faith. We are still very much a generation of idealists who are responsive to men who incorporate these enduring values in their being. Mr. Dumas Freeman, Boise High School's principal, is a tribute to his own generation—our generation is affectionately indebted to him because of his wisdom, humility, and vision. The 1970 Courier is dedicated to Mr. Freeman, a gentleman, whose inspiration is the answer to what it is to be young.

Our goals could never have been reached without the help and support of many—Mr. George DeVoe, in particular, who has been more than an advisor and more than a friend. The Courier Editors thank him profoundly for his place in this book and for his place in our lives. To all the Courier Staff, teachers, and students we are deeply grateful.

Jane Hamersley and Jack Morgan

We are always saying farewell in this world, always standing at the edge of loss attempting to retrieve some memory, some human meaning, from silence, something which was precious and is gone.

Adlai Stevenson
